In Digestive Disturbances

In gastro-intestinal disorders it is a primary consideration that the food should be light and unirritating. In gastric and duodenal ulceration and in the dyspepsias, Allenburys Beef Juice may safely and advantageously be given, where beef tea would often increase the pain and have a harmful effect. Because of its high protein content, it provides a valuable means of keeping up a patient's strength.

In bottles at 2/- and 3/6 each.

Priority-Milk Babies

The war years have produced lovelier babies and healthier babies than ever before. Why?

Because the Government have made FRESH COW'S MILK Priority for babies and children.

And we know they have been getting it. SISTER LAURAS FOOD modifies fresh Cow's Milk—and never before has there been so large a demand for Sister Lauras Food. It modifies the milk, breaks up the casien, and makes it digestible by the youngest and most delicate infant.

Priority Milk modified by Sister Lauras is the natural and finest diet for Baby, when breast-feeding fails.

FREE PROFESSIONAL SAMPLES sufficient for a good trial. Just send a postcard to SISTER LAURAS FOOD (Dept. NT/1), Bishopbriggs, Nr. Glasgow.

Healthy sleep is necessary to restore the energy spent during working hours, and a hot, soothing drink of Bourn-vita last thing at night helps to bring this sleep naturally and easily.

Bourn-vita is made of eggs, malt, milk and chocolate and, as well as being delicious, is easily digestible. It is a suitable night-cap for the convalescent.

VOL. XLII. No. 1. SATURDAY, JANUARY 5, 1946

EDITOR: MISS K. F. ARMSTRONG, S.R.N., S.C.M., DIPLOMA IN NURSING, LONDON UNIVERSITY

For the Advance of Mental Nursing

ON December 20, the Ministries of Health and Education published a second Report from the Athlone or Inter-Departmental Committee on Nursing Services, the Report of the Sub-Committee on Mental Nursing and the Nursing of the Mentally Defective. The Report has a peculiar interest in that it was drafted before the war and, by September, 1939, the Committee were on the point of meeting to consider it. With the outbreak of hostilities the activities of the Athlone Committee were suspended and the Report lay in 'cold storage' until May, 1945, when, because of the many problems which existed in the mental nursing profession, which the work of the Rushcliffe Sub-Committee and the National Advisory Council for the Recruitment and Distribution of Nurses brought to light, the Ministers of Health and Education agreed that the Sub-Committee should sit again with a view to producing its report.

The Sub-Committee had taken all the evidence on which the report was based before the war, and they decided not to take evidence afresh, as this might lead to erroneous conclusions because of the abnormality of conditions during the war. Some paragraphs have been deleted as being out of date. Others have been left in although they are out of date, for historic interest and to make the report complete: for the Report asked for a national scale of salaries for mental nurses and these have been awarded by the Rushcliffe Committee's Sub-Committee for mental nurses: it also suggests methods by which the national scales could be enforced and this has come about by the Minister of Health's grant of 50 per cent. of the cost of the increased salaries to hospitals which adopted the scales completely. The most important sections, however, deal with the staffing of mental hospitals, the training and registration of mental nurses, and in this field no progress has yet been made though the matter has been under consideration, not only by mental nurses and their employers, but also by general trained nurses and in particular by the Horder Nursing Reconstruction Committee in Section II of its Report on the Education and Training of the Nurse.

One of the most interesting features of this new Athlone Report on Mental Nursing is the great similarity between the findings of these two committees. It is the more striking in that the Athlone Sub-Committee had a majority of nursing and medical personnel with special and expert knowledge of mental nursing, and the only general trained nurse, Miss Gertrude Cowlin, a member of the Athlone Committee. On the other hand, the Horder Committee consisted mainly of general trained nurses with representatives of other branches of nursing and of allied professions and interests. It is, we feel, a very hopeful sign that, after considering the problems, their recommendations are in so many respects similar.

The chief feature of the recommendations is that there shall in future be one accepted qualifying examination for the mental nurse. In the past there have been two, the older certificate of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association which has been in existence since 1891, and the newer examinations of the General Nursing Council for the supplementary part of the Register for Mental Nurses, which began in 1924. The examinations held by the Royal Medico-Psychological Association have remained the most popular: in the years 1936-1938, 5,600 candidates entered for their final examination compared to 613 entering for the State Final Examination in Mental Nursing. What were the reasons?

In the first place, the Report quotes the opinion that the mental hospital authorities and the medical superintendents have taken a conservative attitude and have not encouraged nurses to enter for the State examinations. There is no additional financial reward for the nurse on the State Register. On the other hand the State Examinations are more difficult, more expensive and less convenient.

There is, it says, little difference between the standards of the two Final Examinations, but the Preliminary Examination is more difficult for the mental student nurse. The great difficulty lies in the nursing section and both the Athlone Sub-Committee and the Horder Committee have recognized this and have made suggestions that the nursing section be adapted to meet the needs of the mental nurse. The point, here, lies in the fact that mental nursing is essentially different from all other branches of nursing work. Because the mind is the seat of the illness, and not the body, only a small proportion of the patients are confined to bed so that the simple nursing duties which are, at the end of one year's training, a matter of second nature to the nurse from other types of hospital have only been learnt and practised in the class room by the student in mental nursing. It is perfectly easy for the student mental nurse to understand and learn about these simple nursing procedures : it is quite impossible for her to carry them out with the same ease and assurance as the student nurse who has practized them steadily at the bedside of a sick patient. The examiners have not been supposed to know when they were examining students from mental or other hospitals, so that they should not be biased one way or another: they have, as a rule, known in a moment or two, because the one is obviously comparatively in her normal surroundings and the other is not. Nothing can alter this except taking the mental nurse from her training school and giving her experience in the wards of a general hospital for at least two to three months before her preliminary examination. Every general trained nurse ought to realize this and try to understand the position as the mental nurse sees it.

A scene from "Eager Heart," the nativity play presented by the sisters and nurses of Bromley and District Hospital, Kent, in aid of the hospital chapel fund

The Athlone Sub-Committee's Report also suggests that mental nurses should have fuller representation on the General Nursing Council. In the present Council of 25 members, 16 are elected and of these 11 are general trained, one a male nurse, two are on the mental part of the Register (one male and one female), and one on the Sick Children's and Fever Sections. This means that, although there is a mental nursing Committee of eight members which deals with the training and registration of mental nurses, there cannot be a majority of mental nurses on this committee. In practice, this has not really mattered as the evidence given by the representatives of the mental nurses on the General Nursing Council to the Athlone Committee was that the opinion of the mental nurse specialists always prevailed : however, there is no assurance for the mental nurse that this would always be the case in the future, and the mental nurses and the Royal Medico-Psychological Association have good reason to press for fuller representation if the Royal Medico-Psychological Examination is to be given up. Mental nursing is so essentially different from other branches of nursing work that the general nurse should welcome some change.

The Athlone Sub-Committee suggests that the number of mental nurses on the General Nursing Council shall not be less than five. This would give mental nurses the opportunity of holding five of the eight seats on the Mental Nursing Committee. They suggest that three be elected, as at present, one male, one female and one mental deficiency nurse, and two be appointed by the Minister of Health. The Horder Committee, going into the reconstruction of the General Nursing Council more fully, suggested quite independently, that three be elected as above, and three be appointed by nursing educational bodies, two being matrons and one a sister tutor of a mental hospital : it also asks that the Minister of Health should appoint one member of the Board of Control, which, under the Ministry of Health, administers the Lunacy and Mental Treatment Acts (under these Acts the local authorities provide some 132,000 beds in public hospitals and there are some 2,500 beds in other institutions for these patients.)

The fees for the Preliminary and Final State Mental Nursing Examinations are £5 5s. : those for the examinations of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association only £1 15s. This is accounted for largely by the fact that the General Nursing Council has to support its own offices, publish the State Registers, carry out elections, maintain a Disciplinary Committee and carry out other similar duties under the Nurses Acts. The higher salaries of mental nurses should make it possible for them to meet the higher fees if the State Examination alone is offered to them: they are the same as those the general trained nurses have paid since 1924. The question of convenience depends on the fact that the General Nursing Council has fewer centres, making more travelling necessary. However, if there were more entrants from the Mental hospitals, more centres would automatically result.

The Athlone Committee is anxious that the two systems of examination shall end as they feel sure that it is essential for the status of the mental nurse that she shall be State-registered. With this end in view they suggest that the register shall be divided into three parts : (1) nurses trained in general nursing (a) females (b) males ; (2) (a) nurses trained in mental nursing (b) nurses trained in mental deficiency nursing (3) nurses trained in sick children's, fever and tuberculosis nursing. They suggest the use of the letters S.R.N. (M.) for the mental nurse, in place of R.M.N. The General Nursing Council has already accepted the principle of omitting the words ' Supplementary ' for the parts of the Register other than the General Part so that some compromise here might readily be reached. Certainly the general trained nurse should do all she can to help to raise the status of mental nursing so that the mental patient benefits.

The need to attract more nurses into the field of mental nursing will strike the general trained nurse very forcibly when she sees the staffing ratios given in this report. On the male side, the average was one nurse to 11 patients by day, and one to 56.3 at night : on the female side, it was one to 11.8 patients by day, and one to 53.3 patients by night. The report suggests that these figures must be substantially reduced and general trained nurses will agree with real sympathy for their colleagues in the mental health services : for these are pre-war figures.

The report does not support the introduction of the assistant nurse grade, though Miss Cowlin and Alderman Mrs. F. A. Keynes dissented from this view, as did two previous committees which considered the matter. The problem will have to be decided in the light of recruitment figures. It seems better to have a second grade of qualified assistant nurses, than a large proportion of helpers without any qualification and unable to qualify.

There are many other interesting matters in the Report which space prevents us discussing. We hope every general trained nurse will read it, as the mental hospital and mental nurse are a large and most important part of the country's Health Service.

Topical Notes

A New Year Resolution

THE New Year has come and the old year which has seen such historic happenings has slipped away. The year 1945 cannot but become famous in history, seeing as it did the Allied victory in Europe and in the Far East. Now we have got to set ourselves to win the Peace in 1946, and to realize, unfashionable as the idea may be at the moment of reaction after the strain of war, that service to our country is just as important now as it was during the war. It is doubly true in the nursing world under the present difficult circumstances. Increased nursing and domestic staff in hospitals of all kinds, particularly in sanatoria, mental and chronic hospitals, is the only solution to present problems. Let us all make a New Year resolution to do our part to maintain and improve the hospital services. To ensure that the future brings the opening up of beds that are closed and not the closing of more week by week, every nurse must work with a will and remember that what she does, what she says, what she is, will either improve the situation or make it worse.

Recruiting and Distribution Our Job

THE New Year will be a critical one. A new health service for the nation is in the making or the marring. We must do our part to see that it is good ; and the part of the nurse is a very big one for without the nurse there cannot be the promised health services for all who need them. We have got to recruit more nurses ourselves. With the lifting of the Control of Engagement Order, our sense of duty to the nation, to the men and women who have contracted tuberculosis and other diseases as a result of war service and war-time conditions, and to the sick who are always with us, has got to take over the work done by compulsion. Some newspapers have welcomed the lifting of the control of nurses in July, others have expressed fear lest it give rise to further shortage of beds. We hope nurses will show that these fears are ungrounded, and will ensure that the hospital services are constantly improved.

For Courage and Initiative

THE announcement of the award of the M.B.E. to two nurses, Miss L. E. Hunkin, Q.A.I.M.N.S.R. and Miss C. V. Lacey, a New Zealander and a temporary member of the Indian Military Nursing Service, brings a memory of the perilous time that many Service nurses have had during the years of war. Miss Hunkin, a trainee of the Royal Surrey County Hospital, Guildford, was working in the Indian Section of the British General Hospital, Trimulgherry, when a serious fight with knives took place between a number of Sikh patients. A sister had just separated two fighters with complete disregard for her own safety, when Miss Hunkin saw the danger, helped to disperse the patients and chased a big and powerful Sikh, the cause of all the trouble, a 100 yards before arresting him single-handed. Her action showed great courage and initiative and undoubtedly prevented further casualties. For New Year Honours see page 7.

Scottish Scales Still Behind

THE new salary scales for nurses in Scotland which come into force, as they do in England (see Nursing Times, December 22, p. 861), on January 1, 1946 and April 1, 1947, will be welcomed and may do something to lessen the present great shortage of nurses in Scotland. We regret, however, that although the salaries are now up to the level for England and Wales they do not reach their maximum in the same number of years. For example, in England and Wales a ward sister will have her highest salary in 16 years, in Scotland in 18 years. The increase for tuberculosis nurses in Scotland is £10 a year : in England a tuberculosis student nurse receives £20 extra a year, and a nurse nursing patients with pulmonary tuberculosis, who is registered or who has the certificate of the Tuberculosis Association, has £40 after two years with an increase of £20 after each further year. Is this the best way to face such problems as the need for closing wards owing to staff shortage while Glasgow has a 70 per cent. increase of tuberculosis since the war ? There will surely be a tendency for nurses who want to nurse in sanatoria to come south of the Border.

A Tribute to Matrons

THE British Medical Journal for December 29 carries a report of an address on "Medicine and the State," given to the Edinburgh Royal Medical Society by the Right Hon. Walter Elliot, M.C., D.Sc., F.R.C.P., which contains some facts and opinions that will interest nurses. He reported how in preparing for the war, in view of the expected air raid and military casualties, the Minister of Health and the Secretary of State for Scotland were made responsible for the provision of adequate hospital accommodation. The Emergency Hospital Service was based on the civil hospitals, expanded where they could be to give additional beds. This led in the first place to a survey of the existing accommodation in 1938, which had not previously been made. It disclosed the fact that there was a total of about 500,000 hospital beds ; 292,592 of these were in general hospitals, 135,903 in mental and mental deficiency hospitals and the remainder in special hospitals. (There are 30,000 more general hospital beds to-day). Mr. Walter Elliot states that, with all its faults, the emergency hospital scheme was an outstanding success and quotes the Times as saying that "it came through the severest tests with fine efficiency." He refers to the important part that "teaching chiefs and the voluntary hospital matrons, previously untried in these great administrative tasks, were asked to play and did play." In another paragraph he refers to the quality of the administrative talent available in the matrons of the voluntary hospitals, and speaks of the critical situation under which their work was done in London. We hope that the layman will, as time passes realize more and more of the facts about the work of our leading nurses during the war. Their work was often done in the background.

THIS WEEK

STUDENT NURSES COMPETITION

The Nursing Times offers prizes of two guineas and one and a half guineas for the two best essays received from student nurses describing interesting cases they have nurse : charts, diagrams and photographs to illustrate the case history will be welcomed. Entries must reach the office by March 1 and should be labelled "Student Nurses Competition."

For Further Discussion

AT THE meeting of the General Nursing Council on December 21, Miss Dey reported that the Education and Examination Committee had considered the letters from the Minister of Health (see Nursing Times, December 1, 1945) concerning the proposed Registers for Tuberculosis and Orthopaedic Nurses, preliminary training schools and the proposed requisite number of occupied beds for training schools and hoped to discuss these matters with the Minister. We shall publish a full account of the meeting next week.

Good Beginnings

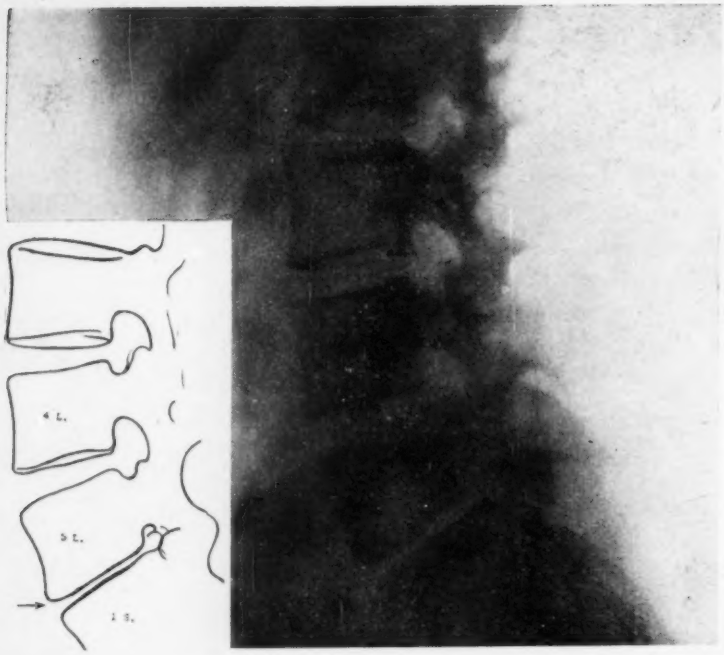
MISS Udell, Chief Nursing Consultant for UNRRA in the European Theatre, has just returned from a Christmas trip to UNRRA camps and centres in Greece, Egypt and Italy. She reports enthusiastically on the valuable work the UNRRA nursing officers of the Allied nations are doing together everywhere. The initial work in Greece under Miss O. Baggallay's leadership is particularly noteworthy as the war has interfered with the training of nurses there drastically and the number of trained nurses in the country is only 400. Three big training schools in Athens have reorganized their schemes of training and with the co-operation of UNRRA a committee consisting of the matrons and sister tutors of the three schools has been set up. This cannot but help to give standardization to the training, which we understand will last for three years, 30 months being given to the general nursing programme, and six months to specialization.

Release and The Civil Nursing Reserve

THE Minister of Health and the Secretary of State for Scotland have announced the release programme for members of the Civil Nursing Reserve. Thanking C.N.R. members they declare that the services they have given "have been of incalculable benefit to the community during the difficult war years." They appeal to members to remain in the Reserve and point out that the Reserve will still welcome new members, because of the present critical position. New rates of pay and conditions of service for members of the Reserve and the opening of C.N.R. membership to people willing to serve in an emergency are announced. For members who cannot continue to give further service the following release programme is announced :—(1) any member who has given a total of more than three years' service as a mobile member in the Reserve—any time from March 1, 1946 ; (2) any member who has given a total of more than two years' service as a mobile member or three years' service as an immobile member in the Reserve—any time from May 1, 1946 ; (3) other members—any time from July 1, 1946. Members released under these arrangements will not be required to take other nursing employment unless they wish to do so. They will also not be subject to any further labour control.

A new National Reserve of Nurses will shortly be formed and nurses giving up nursing for marriage or other reasons will be asked to enrol in it. The new body will be called on in any future temporary emergency such as a serious epidemic. But this National Reserve will take time to set up, therefore, nurses willing to join the Reserve may enrol in the C.N.R. as emergency members, who, if called for service, will receive salary and emoluments at the rates currently applicable to members of the C.N.R. They will also be provided with uniform and will be accepted for whole or part-time service in their own district if they cannot volunteer for mobile service.

The new scales of salaries for ward sisters, staff nurses, assistant nurses and nursing auxiliaries of the C.N.R. will come into operation from January 1, 1946. Examples of the increased scales of resident members are as follows :—Ward Sisters ; Old Scale ; £140 by £10 to £170, New Scale ; £170 by £10 to £230 in the 10th year. Staff Nurses on General Part of Register ; Old Scale ; £110 by £10 to £130, New Scale £130 by £10 to £170. The higher salary Scales (e.f. the new Rushcliffe Scales) are due to the fact that this service carries no pension.



A FEW CASES OF RUPTURED INTER-VERTEBRAL DISCS FROM AN ORTHOPAEDIST'S LOG BOOK

By KENNETH H. PRIDIE, M.B., F.R.C.S.
Honorary Orthopaedic Surgeon,
Bristol Royal Hospital

Left : X-ray of the spine in the lumbar and upper sacral region; lateral view showing the diminished intervertebral space between the fifth lumbar and first sacral vertebrae where the intervertebral disc is missing. Inset : outline of the vertebrae which are obscured to some extent by the iliac bones. Below : antero-posterior view of the same patient

THE problems in the treatment of a case of sciatica due to a ruptured intervertebral disc can best be illustrated by referring to an actual case. A young healthy man, aged 23, who was a farm worker, and able to do the hardest forms of manual labour up to the date of his accident, suddenly became a complete invalid and had been under treatment for two years. I happened to see him for an insurance report. His case is typical of so many disc-lesion cases, which suffer for so long, receive all manner of treatment, finally give up hope and become chronic invalids.

Many patients with ruptured discs give a clear history of injury. In this case, the patient had been taking a pig to market. With great difficulty they had got the pig into a cart and to keep it there they put a tarpaulin over the cart, securing it over the front. The patient sat on the tarpaulin at the tail-board to keep this end in place. The pig, becoming restless, tried to get out and dislodged the patient with his snout, heaving him out of the back of the cart so that he fell in a sitting position on the ground.

He was naturally very shaken by this accident but did not notice anything very seriously wrong at the time, apart from bruising, and was able to carry on with his business. About a week later, however, he developed a sciatic pain in the right leg extending down the distribution of the 5th lumbar nerve root.

Nine Months in Plaster

He attended the local hospital where an X-ray was taken, but as this showed no evidence of any fracture no-one was stimulated to do much for him. He was eventually transferred to another hospital where he was seen by an orthopaedic surgeon who diagnosed a ruptured intervertebral disc and put him in a plaster jacket for nine months. Only the very poor or the very rich could afford this form of treatment. Nine months in plaster without any work would be economic ruin to a married working man, and this treatment, involving such economic losses, is not practical except in a major calamity such as tuberculous disease of the spine. Most surgeons treating a ruptured intervertebral disc would employ conservative treatment first and if the patient showed no improvement at the end of six weeks would consider operative treatment. However, this patient did manage to put up with his plaster jacket for nine months, at the end of which time he was supplied with a modified Goldthwaite's brace, which he was still wearing when I saw him, and he had done no work during the two years since his accident. His complaints were not of sciatica, but of a chronic ache in the low back, pain in the right buttock and down the right leg. As the acute sciatic pain that he had experienced had been lessened by the treatment he thought he was suffering from a different type of pain which he did not think was sciatica. He was very depressed about himself and volunteered the information that he did not think that he would ever be cured or be able to do full work again. I think anyone who had undergone this form of treatment for so long with so little result can be expected to be on the verge of despair.

On examination, this patient had no obvious deformity of his back, and his movements were good. There was no pain on hyper-extension of the spine but he complained of pain on coughing and sneezing. There were then no signs of nerve pressure such as anaesthesia, or loss of ankle jerk. There was only a slight dullness of feeling over the 5th lumbar dermatome distribution. There was 1 in. wasting of the muscles of the right calf. Straight leg raising of the right leg caused pain when 60° was reached, whereas on the left side he could raise the leg to well over a right angle without pain. An X-ray was taken which showed negative findings for any other lesion, but there was slight widening of the interspace between the 4th and 5th lumbar vertebrae on the right side as compared with the left.

This case almost presents the whole problem of sciatica from the start to finish. The patient had an accident and we almost know for certain that the disc was injured then. The disc started herniating backwards and caused a very severe sciatica associated firstly with wasting, (from which the patient has not yet recovered), and secondly with altered sensation, both these being definite evidence of pressure on the nerve root. He went to see a surgeon, who probably was not completely converted to the disc theory, and he was treated, quite rightly, by conservative treatment. Under this treatment he improved, but was not completely cured. It is very difficult to persuade a patient to have an operation after he has been treated conservatively for two years, as this man had been. If you try to give an adequate reason for operation the patient will say, "But Doctor, why did you not operate before ? " and this is very hard to explain.

This is a typical example of a ruptured disc and of the chronic invalidism which it will cause. The patient is well enough in himself—he is up and about and soon gets accustomed to a life of leisure and invalidism from which it is extraordinarily difficult to rouse him.

Persuading the Patient

You may find it difficult to accept the new idea that sciatica is due to a lesion affecting one nerve root and due to a ruptured and protruding disc. Probably the best way would be for me to describe a specific case where a diagnosis was made, and proven at operation.

A nurse, aged 29, came to see me in an acute state of pain. She was bent over and could not stand erect and her pain, distributed down the sciatic nerve, was so great that it was quite distressing to see her move. She gave a history that when a child aged about 8 years old, she fell out of a window whilst sleep-walking and injured her back. She was treated in bed for four years and then in a spinal chair, and finally in a bath chair before she recovered. Two years ago she fell downstairs, bumping her back on the stairs as she fell. Following this she complained of pain in the back which at times was worse than others. She found great difficulty in getting up after she had been seated for any length of time. If she sat down to a meal, so great was the pain that she had to get up and walk about. She had wandered from doctor to doctor seeking a cure, and her complaint had finally been dubbed hysteria.

Operative Treatment

I first treated this case conservatively by a course of massage and diathermy and a good corset. This, however, made her worse. A flexion plaster was then applied. This also did not improve her in the slightest. Operative treatment was therefore carried out. At operation an exposure was made in the mid-line and the muscles were divided from the spinous processes on the affected side and scraped outwards. The back of the sacrum appeared to be deficient and had no spinous process. The ligamentum subflavum between the 5th lumbar and 1st sacral vertebrae was then opened and no disc found. The 4th and 5th interspace was then opened and also no disc was found. Enough exposure was available, however, to see that the space between the two vertebrae did not coincide with the space between the two laminae. The 5th lumbar lamina was then removed and a large sequestrated disc, that is a free disc, was found underneath the 5th lumbar nerve root which was stretched over it. Great difficulty was experienced in retraction of the 5th lumbar nerve root. The wound was closed at the end of the operation and a drain used. The wound healed in ten days by first intention. Following the operation the patient had a weakness of the peronei due to retraction of the 5th lumbar nerve root but she stated that her pain had completely disappeared. The peroneal paresis improved gradually and she had voluntary control in six weeks, but there was still some diminished power.

There was no argument that the lesion was due to a disc and on reviewing the history it is a great pity that the patient was allowed to suffer for so long before operative treatment was resorted to. The whole problem in dealing with these cases seems to be to know when to operate. If very early operations are performed these patients will never get paralysis, lost ankle jerks, or wasting, but at operation only very small protrusions of the disc will be found and an onlooker might be very sceptical as to the true nature of the lesion. If you are prepared to wait until the patient shows some signs of paralysis before operating, you will then find a most dramatic lesion which will impress everyone present. Most of the cases on whom I have operated recently have been having pain from two to six years—some for even longer, as shown by the next case.

I was asked to see a patient, a man aged 35, whose history dated from the age of 19. He had noticed since this age that after a long motor drive he developed backache. He felt no real inconvenience, however, until about seven years later when he felt very stiff on getting out of bed every morning and had to walk about to get loose. This was followed by a long spell of discomfort after getting up from being seated. He was very stiff after getting out of a car. He was treated by radiant heat for six months and he was free from pain for a considerable time. He then had a fall from a horse and was under treatment for twelve weeks. He took the " waters " at a Spa and went to an osteopath and a manipulative quack. He states that after this he had recurrent attacks of "lumbago" twice a year until 18 months ago when he had another injury. He was playing tennis and twisted his back as he was serving. He states that he felt something " go " in his back and collapsed and had to be carried off the court. He rested in bed for three weeks and the pain gradually subsided.

Fourteen days before I saw the patient he had been doing some rough shooting and that evening he felt the same type of pain in his back. He used a radiant heat lamp twice a day and was improving until one morning when he was lifting the bonnet of his car, he suddenly felt something " go " in his back. He had to be carried upstairs to bed where he had remained until I saw him.

"Lumbago"

This is the typical history of a degenerating disc. When the disc is starting to go backwards it causes an irritation of the dura and leads to frequent attacks of " lumbago." " Lumbago " is not a condition affecting the muscles, as has been thought previously, but is due to irritation of the dura with associated referred spasm in the muscles of the back. Nearly all cases where there has been a proved disc lesion have had repeated attacks of " lumbago." During these attacks the disc was degenerating and the back was unstable and the dura in the spinal canal was irritated, causing reflex spasm of the back muscles. This was nterpreted by the patient as " lumbago."

There are many other lesions which cause pain referred down the sciatic nerve but their origin and cause is quite easy to determine. Therefore it is of the greatest importance to examine most thoroughly every case of so-called " sciatica." By far the commonest cause is that of a ruptured intervertebral disc, and the common syndrome for this is as follows: Generally an injury, and if not an injury, repeated attacks of " lumbago." Where there is an injury it is a case of destruction of the disc—where there are repeated attacks of " lumbago " there is a degenerating process going on inside the disc due to some other cause. As the disc starts protruding backwards it causes pressure on the 1st sacral or 5th lumbar nerve, according to the situation of the disc protrusion.

At least 90 per cent of these discs are at the weakest link of the spine, that is between the 5th lumbar and 1st sacral nerve. The next most frequent site is at the junction between the 4th and 5th lumbar nerve. Discs higher up are extremely rare and their diagnosis is quite difficult. If the disc is a serious protrusion there will be loss of ankle jerk, or diminished ankle jerk, and altered sensation over the 5th lumbar or 1st sacral dermatome. On examination of the back there will generally be a contra-lateral scoliosis which is nature's effort to relieve the pressure syndrome by keeping the nerve root to one side of the bulge. There will be a lost lumbar curve and hyper-extension will be impossible. Hyper-extension appears to retropulse the disc and flexion appears to release the tension of the disc posteriorly. There is generally pain on coughing and sneezing and an in-increase of the pain when pressure is made over the ligamentum subflavum covering the disc protrusion.

Treatment

There are several alternative lines of treatment that will relieve this condition :

1. Manipulation.—In the early stages of a ruptured disc, manipulation may cure the condition completely, or cure it for the time being. It frees the nerve root from the slight disc protrusion making it take a more medial or lateral position, thus relieving the pressure on the protruding disc. If traction is applied to the affected leg the pain will disappear almost instantaneously as the disc is sucked back into its proper position. This, I think, is of diagnostic value in cases of disc protrusion.

2. Manipulation under an Anaesthetic.—This can be very dangerous, especially if brute force and ignorance are used. There is great danger in forcible hyper-extension. I know of two cases where vigorous manipulation has produced quite severe paralysis as the disc has been completely retropulsed causing a very great increase of pressure. Flexion manipulation and rotation appear to be quite safe.

3. Stretching of the Sciatic Nerve.—An old method of treatment for sciatica was exploring the sciatic nerve and stretching it manually. This produced some very good results and until I was converted to the disc theory I was carrying it out very successfully. The only trouble was that the symptoms had a habit of recurring after about six years, and on all these cases that I have operated on I have found ruptured discs.

4. Flexion Plaster.—This treatment will be successful where there is a degenerating disc but it is completely useless where the disc is sequestrated, that is loose in the spinal canal. This treatment should continue for about six weeks and if there is no improvement at the end of this time operative treatment should be considered.

5. Rest in Bed in Flexed Position.—If patients do not like the idea of a flexion plaster an alternative to this is rest in bed for about six weeks in high Fowler position.

6. Operation to Remove the Disc.—If the above methods of treatment do not appear to be successful after a trial of about six to twelve weeks, then operative treatment should be resorted to. It is not a difficult operation after you have performed the first few. The chief difficulty in starting to do these operations is to know whether you are encountering a disc protrusion or no.

Results

The following results are to be expected from different forms of treatment :

1. Manipulation will cure temporarily about 50 per cent. of early cases.

2. A flexion plaster will cure 75 per cent. of early cases and if this treatment is given early the good results appear to be permanent. If, however, the patient has a recurrence, this is an indication for operation.

3. With regard to results from operative treatment, if, after careful clinical examination, it is found that there are signs of irritation of one nerve root only, operation will generally reveal a disc lesion. When a disc cannot be found at operation, it is generally an error in technique, either the exposure is inadequate, or the disc protrusion is between one of the laminae, or extremely laterally placed. Following this operation patients cannot be 100 per cent. normal, because they have lost a disc, but their chief delight is in having lost their pain. They appear to be able to go back to the hardest forms of manual labour without trouble.

The following complications may arise, however :

1. There may be an acute irritation of the dura which is so severe that the patient will have to be put into plaster of paris.

2. Following this operation, some patients, although they are delighted that they have lost their sciatica, complain that their back is not as strong as it was before. This seems perfectly reasonable as the patient originally had an unstable back and because of this he developed a disc lesion. The disc caused pressure on the nerve and although the operation removed the pressure on the nerve the patient was still left with an unstable back. If this persists and the patient wishes to do heavy work it will be necessary to perform a spinal bone graft later.

PRE- AND POST-OPERATIVE CARE OF A PATIENT WITH A RUPTURED INTERVERTEBRAL DISC

By M. A. TOWNSEND, S.R.N., Sister, Winford Orthopaedic Hospital, Bristol

THE patient with a ruptured invertebral disc is admitted to hospital at least two days, and if possible, three or four days before the date of operation.

Pre-operative Preparation.—Skin preparation is commenced two days prior to operation, so that, in all, four skin preparations are undertaken : one on the second day before, two on the day before, and one on the morning of the operation.

Method of Skin Preparation.—The area prepared extends from the lower border of the scapula to mid-thighs. The skin is washed thoroughly with a 1 per cent. solution of Cetavlon (cetyl-trimethyl-ammonium-bromide) and shaved ; it is then swabbed with methylated ether followed by surgical spirit. This procedure is repeated for the second and third preparations. On the morning of operation the skin is rubbed with methylated ether, then painted with an antiseptic solution, preferably one which stains the skin such as Merfenil or Merthiolate, so that the area prepared is clearly outlined. Using a many-tailed binder and bandages, the sterile towels are fixed firmly in position, so that they do not become disarranged when placing the patient on the operating table—the operation is performed with the patient in a modified genu-pectoral position, that is, prone and sitting back on the heels so that the spine is arched.

An aperient may be ordered to be given two nights before operation, or a simple enema the night before operation. Normal diet is allowed until the day of operation, and light diet to within four hours of operation, supplemented by glucose which may be continued up to the time when the pre-operative drugs are given.

Post-Operative Treatment.—Following the operation the patient may be nursed on his side with the knees flexed until he has recovered from the anaesthetic, then he may be placed in the position which he finds most comfortable, usually semi-recumbent, with a knee pillow so that hips and knees are slightly flexed. Often the patient is most comfortable when turned a little away from the affected side.

Dressings.—At operation a rubber drain is usually inserted in the lower end of the wound to prevent the formation of a haematoma, and a stitch is inserted loosely but not tied. After 48 hours the wound is re-dressed with all aseptic precautions, the drain removed and the stitch tied to close the end of the wound. No further dressing of the wound is necessary until the tenth day, when the stitches are removed.

Complications

The following complications may arise in the period following the operation :—

1. Difficulty of Micturition.—All the usual methods of inducing a patient to pass urine should be tried, including allowing the patient to sit on the edge of the bed with his feet over the side if the back is well supported. If these fail, the doctor will probably order a hypodermic injection of acetyl choline to be given. This is usually successful ; it is rarely necessary to pass a catheter.

2. Post-Operative Pain.—If much pain is experienced after operation the patient is inclined to become very depressed and disappointed, imagining that the operation has been unsuccessful. The nurse who is attending the patient can do much to reassure him on this point if the causes of the pain are understood. The operation has been performed in close proximity to the dura and the anterior nerve root, both of which may easily show signs of irritation, and the latter may have been stretched by retraction. Much can be done by the nurse to relieve post-operative pain, by finding the most comfortable position for the patient. In a few cases the pain has become so severe that it was only relieved by putting the patient into a flexion plaster jacket. This is applied with the spine in moderate flexion, and extends from the 1st dorsal vertebra to the coccyx and is extended to include the thigh as far as the femoral condyles on the affected side.

In cases where there is a bony deficiency, that is, where a lamina of one or more vertebrae has been removed, a minimum period of three weeks in bed is required ; the full period of confinement to bed being determined by the amount of bone removed. In a straightforward, uncomplicated case, the patient is allowed out of bed when the stitches have been removed, that is, on the tenth day, and is encouraged to return to normal activities by gradual stages. Rehabilitation by active exercises is not used, and no heavy weight lifting is allowed for three months.

FOR SERVICE — Many Nurses Honoured in the New Year List

FOREMOST among the nurses honoured on this first New Year of peace is Miss Helen Dey, O.B.E., R.R.C., matron of St. Bartholomew's Hospital and Sector Matron of the Emergency Medical Service, who has been promoted from Officer to Commander of the most Excellent Order of the British Empire. As chairman of the Matrons' Association, an elected member of the General Nursing Council, of the Council of the Royal College of Nursing, on the Rushcliffe Committee, the Horder Committee and the National Advisory Council of the Ministry of labour and National Service, She has played a leading part in the organization of the nurse's work during the war and in the improvement of her training and status. Busied with these affairs even before the war she became an increasingly well-known and well liked figure and all will join in congratulating her on this honour. Another member of the General Nursing Council (appointed by the privy Council) Lady Limerick has been made a Dame Commander of the same order. We congratulate all other friends of the nursing profession who have been honoured including Lady Louis Mountbatten, Mr. A. S. Frere, Lord Southwood, Mr. A. V. Hill, Sir Godfrey Ince and Mr. Arton Wilson, and we welcome the awards to the following nurses :—O.B.E :—Miss E. I. Richardson, matron, Austin Hospital, Victoria ; Miss E. M. L. Bryant and Miss K. Stewart, matrons and Miss B. Hegarty, sister, Colonial Nursing Service, Malaya, for services during internment ; Miss L. Banks, matron, Palmerston North Public Hospital and President Registered Nurses' Association, New Zealand. M.B.E. :—Miss L. Lyall, matron, Cadets Hospital, Indian Military Academy, Dehra Dun.; Mrs. D. Stanier, Lady District Superintendent, Auxiliary Nursing Service, St. John Ambulance Brigade Overseas (District No. 3), Bombay ; Miss M. B. Craig, Colonial Nursing Service, assistant matron, European Hospital, Dar-es-Salaam, Tanganyika ; Mrs. K. Gulia, Superintendent of nurses, Hamrun Hospitals, Malta ; Mrs. S. K. Mackenzie, Tan Tock Seng Hospital, Singapore ; Miss G. R. Mutton, Colonial Nursing Service, senior nursing sister, Medical department, Gold Coast ; Mrs. M. Bennett; Miss M. Munro, S. Rhodesia ; Miss A. Piggott, Basutoland ; Mrs. M. Quinlan, Newfoundland ; Mrs. P. Wilson, Bechuanaland Protectorate; Miss J. Duly, S. Rhodesia.

INTER-DEPARTMENTAL COMMITTEE ON NURSING SERVICES:

Summary of the Conclusions and Recommendations of the Sub-Committee on Mental Nursing and the Nursing of the Mentally Defective*

THE following is a summary of the conclusions and recommendations contained in this Report :—

(i) The Shortage of Nurses

(1) The shortage of nursing staff in mental hospitals and mental deficiency institutions is, speaking generally, a shortage of female staff only.

(2) At the beginning of 1938 there was, on authorized establishments, an over-all average shortage of about 6 per cent of the female staff. To measure the real shortage regard must be paid to the adequacy of the establishments authorized and the length of hours worked.

(3) As in the past, the main source of recruits for the mental nursing service will be the girls who do not go through a full secondary education to the age of 18. Before recruitment, these girls will have spent three or four years at work in industry or commerce and, to ensure a sufficient number of recruits, it will be necessary to offer satisfactory conditions of service and improve the amenities of mental hospital life.

(4) There is a very high "wastage" rate amongst recruits to the mental nursing service, and, in our opinion, one of the main reasons for this is that sufficient care is not being taken to introduce recruits sympathetically and gradually to the responsible and sometimes unpleasant duties of a nurse in a mental hospital. (Paragraphs 8-13.)

(ii) The Status of Mental Nursing

(5) We consider that the mental nursing service should be held to be comparable in status to any other branch of the nursing profession. That it is not so, is to a large extent due to the public attitude towards mental illness which involves ignorance of the high qualities of mind and body demanded from the nurse in the mental nursing service. There are some 29,000 nurses employed in this service—16,400 women and 12,600 men—and we think that, if recruitment is to be stimulated and the quality of the recruits improved, all possible steps must be taken to give the mental nurse a status comparable to that occupied by the nurse engaged in general sick nursing. To that end many of our recommendations are directed. (Paragraphs 3-7 and 14-20.)

(iii) Mental Nurses and State Registration

(6) To secure an improvement in status, two points are fundamental—first, all qualified mental nurses should be registered by a statutory body; secondly, registration on a supplementary part of the State Register is not satisfactory. (Paragraph 21.)

(7) A mental nurse may become qualified in one of two ways—either through the examinations of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association or through the examinations of the General Nursing Council. The majority of mental nurses hold the first qualification, which for purposes of remuneration is considered equivalent to the second, but State Registration is available only to nurses who pass the examinations of the General Nursing Council. We consider that the time has come when there should be only one recognized qualification for the mental nurse. (Paragraphs 22-31.)

(8) An effort made by our first Chairman to secure a compromise between the views of the General Nursing Council and the Royal Medico-Psychological Association having failed, we have, with some reluctance, come to the conclusion that, in the best interests of the mental nursing profession, the Royal Medico-Psychological Association should discontinue their examinations, and we so recommend. (Paragraphs 32-34.)

(9) If, however, the training and examination of mental nurses is to become the sole responsibility of the General Nursing Council, certain conditions are indispensable. These are :—

(a) Nurses holding the certificate of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association must be completely protected, by opening the State Register to them in perpetuity;

(b) Mental and mental deficiency nurses must be given representation on the General Nursing Council corresponding to their position in the nursing profession and the representatives of the mental nursing service must always be in a majority on any committees of the Council dealing primarily with mental nursing matters;

(c) Modifications must be made in Part II of the Preliminary State Examination to make it more suitable for nurses trained in mental hospitals, and oral examiners should be supplied with the candidates' records and instructed on the questions which it would be unfair to ask candidates from mental hospitals;

(d) The position of hospitals recognized as training schools by the Royal Medico-Psychological Association must be safeguarded, and, to ensure the necessary flow of trained mental nurses, this recognition would have to carry automatic recognition by the General Nursing Council for a period of at least three years after the change-over;

(e) The conditions under which mental nurses and mental deficiency nurses may obtain their qualification as a general trained nurse must be as favourable as at present, i.e., after two years' training in a hospital recognized as a complete training school;

(f) In view of the arrangements which exist for reciprocal registration the co-operation of the General Nursing Councils for Scotland and for Ireland must be secured. (Paragraphs 35-42.)

(10) We recommend very strongly that a joint committee of the General Nursing Council and the Royal Medico-Psychological Association, under an independent chairman nominated by the Minister of Health, should be set up to establish the foregoing essential conditions for the discontinuance of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association's examinations and to work out the many points of detail involved. (Paragraph 43.)

(11) If agreement to the scheme outlined above cannot be obtained, we recommend that, in view of the paramount importance of securing a recognized status for the mental nurse, legislation should be introduced to remove the registration of mental nurses from the General Nursing Council and to establish a separate statutory body, perhaps on the lines of the Central Midwives' Board, to control the training, examination and registration of mental and mental deficiency nurses. (Paragraph 44.)

(12) We recommend that the system of State-registration should be revised so as to split the State Register into three parallel parts—Part I for general trained nurses, Part II for nurses trained in mental and mental deficiency nursing, and Part III for nurses trained in special branches of the profession. (Paragraphs 45-47.)

(13) We recommend that all nurses on the Register should be entitled to the designation "State Registered Nurse" abbreviated to "S.R.N." and that the Part of the Register should be indicated by appropriate initials or the name of the Part placed in brackets after the abbreviation. (Paragraph 48.)

(14) We recommend that, as at present, the minimum period of training for the Final Examination qualifying for admission to the New Register should be three years, and that, for a nurse entered on Part II, the minimum additional period of training before taking the examinations for Part I or Part III should be two years and one year respectively. A nurse entered on Part I and seeking the qualification for Part II would require two years additional training, while the nurse on Part III seeking the same qualification would require three years. (Paragraph 49.)

(15) For these new arrangements to be successful, all certificated mental nurses must become State-registered and we expect mental hospital authorities, the Medical Superintendents and the Mental Hospital and Institutional Workers' Union to do all in their power to encourage nurses to register as soon as the Register is opened to them. (Paragraph 50.)

(16) We consider that the representatives of the mental nursing service should be in a majority on the Mental Nursing Committee of the General Nursing Council and we recommend that the number of representatives of the service on the Council should be increased from two to not less than five, one of these being a representative of nurses of mental defectives, and male nurses always being represented. We also recommend that three of the five should be elected representatives, the other two being nurses nominated by the Minister of Health. (Paragraphs 51-54.)

(17) We are of opinion that the functioning of the Mental Nursing Committee of the Council and its relationship to the Education and Examination Committee should be reviewed. Either the conduct of the training and examination of mental nurses should be transferred to the Mental Nursing Committee, or an independent sub-committee of the Education and Examination Committee should be set up, with mental nurses in the majority. (Paragraph 55.)

(iv) Recruitment and Training

(18) We recommend that, in the case of female staff, 18 years should be the absolute minimum age of entry to ward duty in a mental hospital. As many hospitals as are able should endeavour to raise the age of recruitment to 19. With male staff, recruitment normally takes place about the age of 21. We would consider 20 to be the minimum age of entry in their case. (Paragraphs 58-60.)

(19) We consider that, while all attempts to enlist the interest of girls who leave school at 15 in the mental nursing service are to be commended, there is no practical means of bridging completely the "gap" between school leaving age and age of entry to the hospital. The only sure way of securing the necessary number of recruits is by enhancing the prestige of the service and making it more attractive as a career and a profession. (Paragraphs 61-65.)

(20) In our view, all possible steps must be taken to ensure that, if the examinations of the Royal Medico-Psychological Association are discontinued, the Test Examination in English, General Knowledge and Arithmetic, required by the General Nursing Council of candidates for the nursing profession who have not reached a defined educational standard, does not exercise an adverse effect on the recruitment of female student nurses to mental hospitals. In any event, the Test Examination should under no circumstances be imposed upon male recruits to the mental nursing service and we recommend accordingly. (Paragraphs 66-67.)

(21) We consider it of importance that the engagement of female student nurses should be the responsibility of the matron of the hospital. Advertisements for staff should be so worded, and communications with parents should be signed by the matron. Wherever possible, female student nurses should be personally interviewed by the matron before engagement and the practice of bringing girls from remote areas on the basis of a three months engagement, whether suitable or not, should be replaced by an interview for engagement with expenses paid to bona fide but unsuccessful applicants. (Paragraph 68.)

(22) We recommend that all recruits should have a medical examination, including an X-ray examination, before commencing work in the hospital. (Paragraph 69.)

(23) We recommend very strongly that a course of preliminary training, of at least four weeks duration, should be provided for all recruits to the mental nursing service. (Paragraphs 70-75.)

(24) It is clear to us that there should be a concerted effort to make the work of the mental health service more widely known than it is at present. Films for public showing might be made, under the direction of the Ministry of Health, and we are of opinion that a central committee might be formed from representatives of the Board of Control, Local Authorities, the Royal Medico-Psychological Association, the Mental Hospitals Association and the Mental Hospital and Institutional Workers' Union to consider and carry out publicity measures to popularize the mental nursing service. (Paragraphs 76-80.)

(25) In our opinion the higher posts in the mental nursing service should be held only by nurses who have obtained a qualification in both mental and general nursing. We recommend that the qualification in mental nursing should normally be obtained before the qualification in general nursing. We deprecate the appointment of a nurse with general qualifications only to a senior post in a mental hospital. (Paragraphs 81-82.)

(26) The arrangements for obtaining a double qualification should make the task as easy as possible and hospitals should grant the concession of a shortened period of training, permitted by the Rules of the General Nursing Council, as a matter of course. Regard should be had, where possible, to the case of male nurses with family obligations who may wish to take their mental and their general training in neighbouring hospitals. (Paragraphs 83-84.)

(27) We are of opinion that the Minister of Health should consider whether it would be possible to grant a permissive power to Visiting Committees to make up the salaries of mental nurses taking general training. (Paragraph 85.)

(28) We recommend that in all hospitals and institutions recognized as training schools, training should be compulsory for all recruits, and it should ultimately become the universal practice to terminate the employment of all student nurses who do not succeed in qualifying within a prescribed period. (Paragraph 86.)

(29) Attendance at lectures and tutorial classes should count as duty and should not be held at the end of a long tour of duty. Adequate accommodation and equipment should be provided for the student nurses. We recommend that all recognized training schools should have a sister tutor and, where the hospital has more than 700 beds, her duties should be concerned solely with instruction. In the larger hospitals a qualified male tutor should also be employed. (Paragraph 87.)

(30) We recommend that if the General Nursing Council become solely responsible for training and examination the arrangements should be such that it is not necessary for the minimum period of three years training to be exceeded greatly before entry for the final examination. (Paragraph 88.)

(31) Short annual refresher courses for the trained staff should be established at all mental hospitals. (Paragraph 89.)

(32) We recommend that the Royal Medico-Psychological Association, the Mental Hospital and Institutional Workers' Union and the Mental Hospital Matrons' Association should consider the possibility of instituting some type of higher education for mental nursing. (Paragraph 90.)

(v) Conditions of Service

(This section of our Report includes observations and recommendations on remuneration, hours of work, length of holidays and superannuation. As these matters fall within the terms of reference of the Rushcliffe Committee they are reproduced in the Report only as of historical interest and it does not seem necessary to summarize our views here except on superannuation, on which the Rushcliffe Committee has not yet reported.)

(33) We strongly recommend that nurses in certified institutions for the mentally defective should be superannuated on the same basis as nurses in mental hospitals and to effect this, the Asylums and Certified Institutions (Officers' Pensions) Act, 1918, should be repealed and the Asylum Officers' Superannuation Act, 1909, applied to these nurses. (Paragraph 110.)

(34) We recommend that it should be permissive for female staff in Class I under the Superannuation Acts to retire, or be retired, at the age of 50 on the appropriate superannuation allowance calculated in accordance with the provisions of the Acts. (Paragraph 111.)

(35) We recommend that the period spent by a trained mental nurse in acquiring a general training at a voluntary hospital should be allowed to count, on a contributory basis, as service for superannuation purposes. (Paragraph 112.)

(36) We recommend that it should be made possible for officers and servants employed in all mental hospitals and institutions covered by the Superannuation Acts to make provision from their pensions for an annuity to their spouses. (Paragraph 113.)

(37) We recommend that the provision in Section 6 of the Act of 1909 which requires the written consent of the Visiting Committee to the removal of an officer to the service of another local authority, before the years of service can be aggregated, should be repealed. (Paragraph 114.)

(38) We hope that, if a scheme for the interchangeability of pension rights within the nursing profession is worked out, every effort will be made to ensure that the benefits of interchangeability are available to the nurse who wishes to move from general hospital nursing to mental hospital nursing and vice versa. (Paragraph 115.)

(39) We recommend that all trained mental nurses should be entitled to permission to live outside the curtilage of the hospital. Student nurses should normally live in the hospital and permission to reside with parents or relatives should be granted only where the hospital authorities are satisfied that this would be in the best interests of the student nurse. (Paragraphs 122-123.)

(40) In no circumstances should nurses occupy bedrooms adjacent to wards. The emergency night reserve should be accommodated in a flat away from the wards, and, if the flat is made sufficiently attractive, service on the night reserve will become a permanency. This will make it unnecessary to duplicate the flat accommodation in the nurses' home. (Paragraph 124.)

(41) There is room for much improvement in the accommodation provided in some of the older nurses' rooms. A home sister or warden should be appointed to take charge of the female nurses' home and the majority of us think that this officer, who need not necessarily be a nurse, should act as a Welfare Officer, with the right of direct access to the Medical Superintendent. (Paragraphs 125-126.)

(42) We recommend that the disciplinary rules of hospitals should be reviewed with the object of securing to the nurses in off-duty time the personal liberty of a private individual and that, for this purpose and for providing a means for the discussion of matters affecting the staff, a nurses' council should be established in every hospital. (Paragraphs 127-128.)

(43) We recommend that the normal hour of closing of the hospitals should be the same in summer and winter and not earlier than 11 p.m. throughout the year. (Paragraph 129.)

(44) We recommend that, in the case of trained staff, late passes should not be required, provided proper notification is given. Student nurses should be granted late passes without unreasonable restriction. (Paragraph 130.)

(45) Medical Superintendents should not be authorized to dismiss summarily in cases of misconduct, but should exercise a power of suspension only. (Paragraph 131.)

(46) In many mental hospitals the cooking and the serving of the food for the staff requires improvement. Cooking for the staff should be separate from cooking for the patients and meals should be served attractively. The use of the cafeteria system could with advantage be extended. A competent cook should be in charge of the preparation of staff meals and every effort should be made to provide a varied diet. (Paragraphs 132-136.)

(47) Student nurses should be medically examined, including an X-ray examination, at least once a year. There should be adequate arrangements for the care and treatment, in a special ward or rooms, of those members of the staff who become ill. (Paragraphs 137-138.)

(48) More could be done to enable nurses to establish interests outside the hospital. Adequate facilities for recreation and social activities should be provided, and hospitals in rural areas might consider the organization of transport to the nearest centre of population for use by nurses who are off-duty. (Paragraphs 139-142.)

(49) In mental hospitals the domestic duties of the nurse, which are undertaken in conjunction with the patients, form a part of occupational therapy, and could not easily be allocated to a separate domestic staff. We recommend, however, the employment of ward maids in admission hospitals or wards, and in sick wards. (Paragraphs 143-144.)

(vi) The Staffing of Mental Hospitals

(50) We consider that the standard of staffing in mental hospitals is inadequate. When opportunity offers, establishments should be reviewed with the object of reducing the ratio of nurses to patients on day duty substantially below the figure of one nurse to eleven patients. An increase in the number of staff on night duty is urgently required and the provision of more qualified nurses for this purpose should be given priority. (Paragraphs 146-147.)

(51) All authorized establishments should have a reserve of 4 to 5 per cent of the total to provide temporary replacements for nurses on sick leave. (Paragraph 148.)

(52) We recommend strongly against the introduction of a recognized grade of assistant nurse in mental hospitals.* (Paragraphs 149-157.)

October 3, 1945.

* Miss Cowlin abstained from voting on this recommendation. Mr. Walton, though not voting, accepts the opinion of the majority.

FINAL EXAMINATION FOR FEVER NURSES.

QUESTION 2.—Fever Nursing.—In what infectious diseases is severe haemorrhage liable to occur?
Describe what you would do in these cases before the arrival of the doctor.

The infectious diseases in which severe haemorrhage is liable to occur are enteric fever and pulmonary tuberculosis and, very occasionally, whooping cough. Haemorrhages which are not usually severe in themselves, but are an indication of the severity of the disease may occur in the haemorrhagic forms of diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, smallpox and meningococcal meningitis.

In enteric fever the haemorrhage is from the intestines and may not be obvious, but there will be all the signs of internal haemorrhage present, i.e., fall of temperature, with a quickening of the pulse which rapidly becomes very quick and thready; there will be restlessness and air hunger, the face will be pale with beads of sweat prominent on the forehead and round the mouth, and the expression will be anxious. If the haemorrhage is revealed it will be passed by the rectum and may vary in amount from one ounce to two or more pints.

While awaiting the arrival of the doctor raise the foot of the bed, remove all but one soft, thin pillow, and apply warmth by means of hot water bottles to the extremities and warm blankets placed over the patient. Give nothing by mouth and prevent any movement of the patient, do not even change the sheet, but pack all round the buttocks and between the legs with tow and cellulose wool. After carrying out all the above treatment, if doctor has not arrived, prepare the hypodermic tray ready to give a hypodermic injection of morphia, gr. ¼, which he will most probably order to be given. Get him to check this whilst he is in the ward. In some hospitals an ice bag would be applied over the right iliac fossa as the bleeding is usually from the lower part of the ileum.

In pulmonary tuberculosis the haemorrhage is from the diseased lung and the patient is often very frightened. He should at once be reassured and calmed, and put in a comfortable position, usually with the head and shoulders on two pillows, and inclined to one side; if known, this should be the side of the lung which is bleeding. Then give calcium lactate by mouth, either, gr. x, in tablet form or elixir, ½ oz. If allowed linctus diamorphine hydrochloride may be given instead of the calcium lactate. It is sometimes allowable to give amyl nitrate to inhale or small pieces of ice to suck. I should also prepare the hypodermic tray ready to give an injection of morphia, gr. ⅙-¼, as this would probably be ordered by the doctor.

If severe haemorrhage did occur in whooping cough the treatment would be the same as for haemorrhage in pulmonary tuberculosis.

Severe epistaxis or bleeding from the nose may occur in almost any infectious disease, but particularly in scarlet fever and enteric fever. If this does occur seat the patient in a current of air and apply cold compresses to the bridge of the nose and nape of the neck. If unable to sit the patient up, the treatment may be carried out with him in a recumbent position with the head to one side. If the bleeding does not soon cease, prepare the necessary articles to plug the nostrils with ribbon gauze soaked in adrenalin chloride.

STATE EXAMINATION QUESTIONS (September, 1945)

Final Examination for Fever Nurses

FEVERS

*1. Give the incubation period, and describe the rash, of the following diseases:—(a) scarlet fever; (b) typhoid fever; (c) rubella; (d) chickenpox.

2. Give a full description of vaccination against smallpox, and mention any complications that may result from vaccination.

3. Describe briefly the onset and course of a typical case of cerebro-spinal fever. For what purpose is lumbar puncture performed? Give a short account of this procedure.

* Questions marked with an asterisk are compulsory

PATHWAYS IN AFTER CARE (The National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, Tavistock House, Tavistock Square, W.C.1; price 5s.)

This is a verbatim report of speeches made at a conference of the Association in July, 1945. It is a slim, paper-covered volume and the price seems somewhat high for the report of a single-session conference; it should prove of interest, however, to tuberculosis workers and employers, alike.

The chairman, Dr. F. R. G. Heaf, senior medical officer, London County Council, stresses two points which deter employers from accepting the tuberculous man or woman: (1) the fear of infection and (2) the possible inability of such a person to keep pace with healthy workers. Mr. R. E. Gomme, assistant secretary to the Ministry of Labour, explains the Disabled Persons Act, with emphasis on the question of sheltered employment. Mr. Peter Fraser, managing director of Papworth and Enham Industries, from his own experience makes out a strong case for the setting-up of industries in connection with every sanatorium to help the partially disabled: Mr. Fraser's quoting from the Medical Research Council's Report on tuberculosis in war-time, says, "Rehabilitation should be considered as an essential part of the treatment of tuberculous persons."

Mr. H. A. Goddard, of Morris Motors, mentions the work of the Industrial and Employment Council in Oxford, and suggests that more use should be made of "home-work," materials being distributed to the disabled and the finished articles collected from their homes by the firms. He thinks that tuberculosis settlements should concentrate on the 'chronic' worker and allow the 'arrested' case (when rehabilitated) to take his place in outside industry.

Mr. C. B. M. Dale, of British Electrical Engineering Co., Ltd., is concerned at the wastage of labour caused by employers being ignorant of the need in their midst; he would like to have a census of the tuberculous persons in each area who are in need of work—a very practical suggestion.

The founder of Papworth, the late Sir Pendrill Varrier-Jones, often quoted, "Hope and work create vitality": this seems to sum up the aim of the conference and this small booklet. If the smaller employer and the would-be employee are to be given the opportunity to fill each other's need, they must be brought together. The National Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis could assist here, by publishing a booklet which could be widely advertised and displayed, at a price within the reach of everyone.

Films and Plays in Brief

The Stork Club

Excellent light entertainment: Betty Hutton is charming and has great personality. J. B. Bates makes a lovable millionaire! Many complications all smooth out in the end.

The Shadow Factory (Mercury)

Ann Ridler's play deals with an up-to-the-minute problem in industrial life. Spencer Harding, chief of the factory "herrenfolk," sees the workers of the future conditioned to enjoy being no more than teams of robots, and plans a campaign designed to bring about "docility through joy"—all provided by the factory. By his shattering painting of life in the factory, Timothy Garnish, artist and poet, convinces the director that although the educational, medical and recreational needs of the workers are satisfied there is still one great desire in man which can never find fulfilment through the machine. Robert Speight as the director gives a brittle, convincing performance, and Alan Wheatley plays an artist one can believe in. Gwen Nelson, as Mrs. Tippett, and Norman Tyrrell, as Blake, the caretaker, are two canteen workers that might be met in any modern factory.

A TYPICAL CASE OF ADVANCED TABES DORSALIS

By P. LANGDALE-SMITH,

ABOUT three weeks ago there was admitted into the ward a rather interesting case of advanced tabes dorsalis with a Charcot's joint of the ankle. The patient had first undergone hospital treatment twelve years previously for tabes dorsalis. Between 1940 and 1943, when the swelling and inco-ordinated movement of the ankle had first become apparent, he had again attended hospital, in the orthopaedic department, but some abatement of symptoms had caused him to discontinue out-patient treatment. He remained under the care of his own doctor. Though his general health deteriorated steadily, it was not until about a fortnight prior to admission that he became entirely bed-ridden.

On admission the patient was quite irrational and hysterical. After a few days he seemed to have settled down but was still subject, though less frequently, to periods of disorientation, fits of crying, and outbursts of extreme annoyance most easily provoked. For instance, should a jug of water be removed from his locker for replenishing or a serviette tidied away, he would become vehemently abusive and tearful. Mentally so alert during the day, at night he slept well, rarely requiring a hypnotic.

Condition on Admission

His personal condition on admission was emaciated and far from clean. He was incontinent of both urine and faeces but with the aid of a bismuth and morphine mixture and some encouragement in the proper use of a urinal, it was possible to keep him dry. In spite of this, four-hourly treatment of all points subject to pressure, and full nursing attention, the large bedsore he had on admission continued to increase. Fluid accumulated in the buttocks giving a strange hot water bottle effect to the touch, and first one side and then the other began to slough. There was a thin, pink and gummy discharge. Of the various treatments tried, a dressing of zinc peroxide cream to the sore area and cod liver oil to the devitalized skin around was found to be the most successful.

His mouth also required constant attention and had apparently shrunk considerably since the fitting of his artificial teeth. However, if fed, he could manage a semi-solid diet satisfactorily and after the first few days his appetite seemed fairly good. His fluid intake over the whole day was also satisfactory, for though at times he would drink nothing, at others he was overcome by an apparently unquenchable thirst. His output balanced his intake except on one occasion, when he appeared to secrete some three to four pints of urine in the twenty-four hours without discomfort. A temperature range of 99°F. to 103°F. was thought to be suggestive of an accompanying cystitis, pyrexia being normally uncommon with tabes.

Reflexes Absent

There was no history of gastric or other crises though there was a slight tendency to ascites. His pupils, though not pin-point, were irregular and failed to react to light (Argyll-Robertson pupil); and all reflexes in both arms and legs were absent. His movements, especially of the legs, were grossly inco-ordinated. Though he had no pain in the affected ankle and could not detect when the toes of either foot were passively moved, he was well aware of his " bad foot " and extremely anxious for a cure. After all, he was only fifty-seven, though he looked over seventy.

This ankle, in addition to being extremely swollen and deformed was ulcerated over both malleoli. X-rays showed gross bony degeneration. Voluntary movement appeared impossible but the foot could be moved passively in any direction with a strange crepitant sound. The three ulcers were dressed daily with acriflavine, methylated spirit being applied to the soggy surround. One ulcer started healing but another formed. There was a most offensive discharge and a dirty grey slough. Later part of the necrosed bone protruded from the lower outer ulcer. These had the characteristic clear cut edges, hard and indurated, but, secondary infection being present, the discharge was purulent, often blood-stained and sticky, and fairly profuse. The history of their development appeared uncertain, the patient himself attributing the cause to " hard boots " and the " irons " he had worn for five years, but there also seemed some evidence of the tissues breaking down from within the diseased joint.

Prognosis is poor and tenuity of life indefinite. A mixture of potassium iodide has been prescribed and future amputation of the foot is under consideration but at present, at any rate, the patient's general condition is too weak. In any case the advantages in the circumstances are doubtful.

What the College is Doing

Points of Interest from the Council Meeting on December 20

THE Council met for the last meeting of this year on Thursday, December 20, and again there was a long session marked by free discussion on a very wide programme of work which mirrored the increasing importance of nursing and allied matters in this period of change and reconstruction.

An encouraging sign of this recognition of the nursing angle came in an invitation received by Council from the British Medical Association to set up a liaison committee between these two professional bodies. The various sections and groups of the College would have representatives on this Committee in addition to the Council itself, and the junior branch, the Student Nurses' Association. This step, which follows on the suggestion made by Dr. Charles Hill at the Ward and Departmental Sisters' Conference, when he was one of the chief guests at the luncheon arranged by Miss Christie, Branches Secretary, in October, should lead to greater co-operation between professions which are very dependent on one another; the members of the Council welcomed this opportunity for regular contact with the Association and a greater mutual understanding.

A second invitation came from the Royal Society of Medicine and asked for the names of a number of nurses qualified to serve on viewing panels for the assessment of medical films.

The Wider View

The Council had sent out three important memoranda during the month. The first of these concerned the form of test examination suitable for present-day conditions and devised to test the intelligence and aptitude for nursing of candidates for the profession: it was put forward by Council as a valuable means of reducing the high wastage ratio which now existed. The second came from the Advisory Board on Nursing Education and dealt with the broad educational aspects of pre-nursing Courses. The Board wished to stress the importance to the nursing profession of the future of ensuring that the vocational aspects, anatomy, physiology and hygiene—the subjects for the Preliminary State Examination, Part I—were not overstressed to the detriment of the education that candidates for the nursing profession received in general cultural subjects, such as English, languages, social history, and the subjects allied to the professional training, physics, chemistry, biology and arithmetic. All these subjects were of importance to the candidate in her later life, and too great a concentration on the professional subjects would tend to have a narrowing effect.

Suitable Machinery

The third memorandum dealt with the special problems of the nurse and national insurance, and had been sent to the Minister of National Insurance with a request that a deputation should wait on him to discuss the matter. This memorandum stressed the difficult position of the private nurse with regard to classification: it was important for her to be in Class I as she needed sick benefit during the first four weeks of illness, as well as unemployment cover and industrial injury benefits. With regard to unemployment, the memorandum dealt with the need for suitable machinery to enable the nurse to obtain benefit (which does not now exist) if she no longer had the present excusal of contributions. Officers at Labour Exchanges could not be expected to know what work individual nurses could properly be asked to undertake and might refuse unemployment benefit because a nurse would not accept work which her recent experience did not make it possible for her to undertake without grave risk to her patients.

The Council welcomed the fact that the control of the engagement of nurses and midwives would be lifted in June, as they felt this would help to ease some of the problems which confronted the nursing profession, although the position with regard to the supply of nurses throughout the service as a whole appeared likely still to be critical.

A Generous Gift

The Council acknowledged with great gratitude a further gift of £1,000 to the Library from the Halford Bequest through the kind interest of Mr. J. P. Mitchelhill. This sum would make it possible to bring the Library further up-to-date by the addition of new text-books and new editions of standard works. The Library was being widely used by nurses and was greatly appreciated by the students taking courses at Headquarters.

The Council considered the draft of the new constitution of the National Council of Nurses of Great Britain. This Council had been in abeyance during the war but was of great importance as the link between nurses of all countries through the International Council of Nurses. Council, realizing that it was a matter of great interest to the nursing profession, decided to refer the details to the Branches at the January Quarterly Meeting of the Branches Standing Committee.

The Council agreed that the Department should raise the fees for the Midwife Teacher's Course to nine guineas (Part I) and three guineas (Part II) to meet increased costs.

The Department also asked permission to explore the possibilities of establishing a three months' full-time course for ward sisters at headquarters for which there was a growing demand. Council agreed unanimously.

An Increase in Fees

The Private Nurses Section asked Council to approve a revised scale of salaries, drawn up in adjustment with the revised scales of salaries for staff nurses and ward sisters announced by Mr. Bevan in November. The scales were:—

	Present Fee			Suggested New Fee
	£	s.	d.	£	s.	d.
Medical and Surgical cases ...	4	14	6	5	5	0
Mental and Alcoholic cases ...	5	5	0	5	15	6
Infectious cases	5	5	0	5	15	6
Midwifery and Maternity cases	6	6	0	7	7	0
Assistant Nurses	3	3	0	3	13	6

The Council also agreed to approach the Ministry of Health to protest against the inspection of nursing homes and co-operations by medical women and sanitary inspectors to the exclusion of the State-registered nurse. The Council felt strongly the nurses should also undertake these inspections.

The Council agreed to enquire into conditions at a hospital which had been reported as unsatisfactory by one of the College officials.

To Obtain Better Shoes

The Student Nurses Central Representative Council sent forward a resolution to ask that, in view of the worsened position, approach should again be made to the Board of Trade to ensure that nurses were able to obtain good quality duty shoes, in view of the fact that the nurse was of necessity on her feet continuously and had been proved to walk on an average 10 to 15 miles a day in the carrying out of her duties. Ten units representing 399 members had sent in this request in one form or another: resolutions had come from widely separated units, the Southmead Hospital, Bristol; Oldchurch Hospital, Romford; the Municipal Hospital, Rotherham; the Abergele Sanatorium, the Preston General Hospital, Wakefield; the King Edward Hospital, Sheffield; the Infectious Diseases Hospital, Burnley; the Children's Hospital, Sheffield; and the Royal Manchester Children's Hospital, Pendlebury. The strain on the feet consequent on nursing has long been acknowledged by the medical profession and the layman, and the Council hoped that the Board of Trade would make some concession as the wastage of nurses was definitely increased by foot troubles due to the lack of satisfactory support resulting from the wearing of poor quality, ill-fitting shoes.

The Question of Control

Three units had also asked that action be taken concerning the control of nurses, particularly in connection with the year of service after qualification but as the Minister had announced that control would cease after June 20, 1946, the Council advised that no action should now be taken. A further recommendation concerning the organization of the nurses home had been discussed by the Student Nurses Central Representative Council. One unit had suggested that it should not be under the control of a trained nurse, but a member of their Council who had had experience of this did not support it. The general opinion was that the essential point was that the trained nurse acting as home sister should have had special training in domestic and social welfare to fit her for this field of work. The matter was referred for further discussion.

The Council approved an attractive leaflet drawn up by the Royal College of Nursing in consultation with the Ministries of Health and Labour on the Resettlement of Nurses. This leaflet had been prepared to assist nurses being demobilized and explaining their rights and the openings for which they can prepare themselves.

For a Preventive Attitude

The Council considered a motion tabled by Miss H. Dey, concerning present methods of dealing with attempted suicide cases, which stressed the criminal as against the psychological aspects of these cases. The Council agreed to consult with other interested bodies.

The General Secretary reported that among generous gifts for the Christmas Tree for Sick and Elderly Nurses she had received a number of useful gifts from their Patron, Her Majesty Queen Mary, together with a record amount of money and goods for distribution through the Nations Fund for Nurses. The Council awarded grants totalling £76 from the Air Raid Victims Relief Funds and grants of £10 and £15 to members from the Sick Insurance Fund.

News from Scotland

The Scottish Board presented to Council a memorandum on the care of the child deprived of normal home life for submission to the "Clyde" Committee, which is dealing with this subject north of the Border.

The Scottish Board reported that two Refresher Courses had been arranged for 1946. The first for trained nurses would be held in Aberdeen from April 1 to 5, and the second—a Public Health course—would be held in Glasgow from September 9 to 13. The Board had also discussed the possibility of arranging a combined course for Health Visitors and Queen's Nurses, similar to those arranged at Headquarters; there had been fifty-three enquiries for such a course. Consultations with the Department of Health for Scotland and other bodies had shown that it would not be possible for students to combine with other nurses taking health visitor training in Scotland, but Miss Parsons had suggested that it might prove possible to meet the demand by taking some students for the Health Visiting section of the training at Headquarters.

New Members

Two hundred and forty-six new members were enrolled and 238 new members of the Student Nurses Association. Four new units of the Association had been formed. These figures maintained the high level of new members which has characterized the whole of the year.

Date of next meeting: January 17, 1946.

Correspondence

Who's Choice?

Do recruits ever seek advice from the recruited? The well-designed poster of the nurse now adorning hoardings throughout the country may appeal to some but does it appeal to the girl who might finish her training as a nurse and with enthusiasm continue her nursing career? The 40 per cent. wastage of student nurses during training does not occur in all hospitals, in fact one often sees in the Nursing Times that a hospital has had 100 per cent. passes in the General Nursing Council examinations. Why not obtain a vote from first year student nurses on a selection of pictures in a cross section of such hospitals before adorning the walls of a country with a tradition of the finest trained nurses in the world with any picture designed to recruit more? The need for nurses is great and demands the utmost trouble from all.

"OLD NURSE."

Brave New World

I want to thank Dr. Luxton for his inspiring article in the Christmas number of the Nursing Times, and to endorse all that he says. We nurses have an enormous part to play in helping to bring in the new world. Private nurses, perhaps, have many more opportunities as we can get to know our patients in a way it is not possible in a hospital. Florence Nightingale first taught nurses the idea of service, which in these days is dying out, the reason being we have put ourselves before our patients, except in the actual nursing. Service has to be a thing of the spirit which will permeate everything . . .

Salaries of Assistant Nurses versus Student Nurses

We, the undersigned, have to-day sent to the Minister of Health the Right Honourable Aneurin Bevan, a letter dealing with the above subject, and a copy of which is enclosed herewith:—

"In hospitals which both employ assistant nurses and train Student Nurses for the General Register, there is great discontent among those students who have completed their three years training and are awaiting the examination. These students, with at least three years' experience, only receive £60 per annum, whereas the Assistant Nurse with only two years' is to receive £90. This is bound to have a bad effect on recruitment, and gives little encouragement to a girl to complete her training.

"It seems that the only equitable thing to do is to pay the third year student nurse who has passed her Preliminary State Examination at the same rate as the Assistant Nurse, as she is more valuable in the hospital, although still receiving tuition.

"We should be grateful if you will give this matter your consideration."

We should be most grateful to receive support in this matter which we consider to be most urgent.

Not Saint Thomas

I have just read the Nursing Times, Dec. 8, page 812. I am interested to know when Hugh Owen Thomas was canonized?

G. L. WHITE,
Barnett Hill Auxiliary Hospital.

(We regret that our caption to the picture of a patient with a fractured femur on page 812 of the Nursing Times, December 8, referred to a St. Thomas's Splint. This, of course, should have read a Thomas's Splint. Hugh Owen Thomas, who devised ten splints in all, came of a famous family of bone-setters in Anglesey. He took his medical training at Edinburgh).

A Square Deal for Matrons

The matron, in the lay press at any rate, too often has bad press. Her present day salary, emoluments and living conditions suggest no reason why she should not lead a full and satisfying life and so be a charming person with broad interests. Her hours of work, or at least of worry and responsibilities, and her often resulting outlook do.

Could the College, and other interested bodies start a campaign for shorter hours for matrons and their assistants: they so often have numerous responsibilities which in any case must take a toll of their off duty time. Study courses for matrons which included refreshment in the nursing subjects of special interest to them and, when necessary, an introduction to psychology might materially affect recruitment and reduce wastage. There should be facilities for part-time courses throughout the country and those who feel they do not need them should attend to encourage those who do.

STUDENT NURSES' ASSOCIATION

Northern Area and Northern Ireland Reports

Birkenhead and Wirral Children's Hospital

We started the new year, 1945 with a new committee. We performed "Aladdin," in aid of the Prisoners of War Fund and our own funds. We had a welcome visit from Miss Montgomery, northern area organizer. During the year we have sent delegates to the Annual Conference at Southport, the Annual Re-union in London and to meet Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth. We now meet bi-monthly, once for a social evening, once for a more serious event. A jumble sale realized £30, part of which was given to the Guide International Service, and Malta Bed Fund. Recently a quiz was held on first aid and home nursing, between members of British Red Cross Society veterans and student nurses of this hospital; we were beaten by 2 marks.

Bootle General Hospital, Liverpool

We have had many interesting events. Instead of the usual Christmas concert, the student nurses gave the pantomime "Cinderella," the costumes were made by the nurses themselves. The performance was given in the nurses' home, and friends and relatives were invited. A "bring and buy" sale was held by the ladies committee to raise subscriptions for the hospital centenary fund. The student nurses had a stall for fancy goods, all made by members; £390 was raised. On the annual prizegiving day the senior nurses first book prize was awarded to Miss M. Hughes, the second to Miss F. A. Mudd and the junior prize to Miss L. Wignall. The prizes were presented by Mrs. Barnes, wife of the chairman of the Hospital Committee. Tea was followed by games on the Tennis court.

Bradford Royal Infirmary

We have given four dances this year; we suceeded in raising £30 for the Royal Navy Fund; we took part in an American table-tennis tournament at St. Luke's Hospital, Bradford and also held a knock-out tournament in which resident members of the staff and student nurses from St. Luke's took part. We held weekly social evenings during the winter. Representatives were sent to the following functions:—The Annual Dinner of the Bradford Branch of the Royal College of Nursing; The Annual Meeting of the Student Nurses Association at Southport; A West Riding of Yorkshire Youth Conference at Bingley Training College; The Annual Speech-Making Contest at the Royal College of Nursing. We also had the honour of sending one of our nurses to help form the guard of honour during the visit of Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth to the Royal College of Nursing. A talk was given by a Norwegian Lady on "Norway's Underground Movement." This winter we have begun our gramophone recitals and are now in full swing with rehearsals for our pantomime "Cinderella."

St. Luke's Hospital, Bradford

Our social events have all proved very successful. The first was a dance held in the nurses' home, as a result a cheque for £20 was sent to the Merchant Navy Fund. A representative from St. Luke's Hospital attended Cowdray Hall, when Princess Elizabeth received the £2,500. Nurses from the Bradford Royal Infirmary visited St. Luke's Hospital for a table tennis tournament and there were some enthusiastic onlookers to watch the exciting match. A brains trust was held amongst the student nurses. The senior sister tutor, Miss Anderson, was question master, and was surprised at the range of knowledge shown. A social evening was held; light refreshments were served, and there were games, competitions and dancing. The sisters and all nurses wished good-bye and good luck to the junior sister tutor who was leaving as her husband has been demobilized. It was a pleasant evening and several new members were recruited for the Student Nurses' Unit.

Bury Infirmary

We are proud to report a 100 per cent membership. Preliminary training school students are encouraged to attend Unit meetings and to take part in Unit activities. The activities of the Unit are varied, interesting and well supported. We have arranged dances, social evenings, and a whist drive, the proceeds of which have been allotted to various funds including Bury's "Adopted Borough" Fund, the Student Nurses' Association "Help the Navy" Fund, and our own Unit funds, including a special fund for the provision of comforts for sick nurses. An amateur dramatic society was formed and presented a play as its contribution to the Christmas festivities. Representatives from this unit have attended a number of inter-unit activities, including the Annual General Meeting at Southport and meetings at the Royal College of Nursing, London. During "Thanksgiving Week" a special savings drive was organised by our sister tutor. In conclusion may we state we have the excellent co-operation of our matron, who affords us every facility for the smooth running of the Unit and takes an active interest in its affairs.

The Infirmary, Stockport, Cheshire

During this year we held a table tennis tournament to raise funds for the Student Nurses' Association, and a social. A talk was given by two nurses who went to the annual meetings at Southport. In May a dance was given to celebrate Victory. A "bring and buy" sale in October resulted in £76. £50 was sent to the Merchant Navy Comforts Funds and the remainder to the Student Nurses' Funds to buy a radiogram. In November talks were given by the nurses who visited London for the annual meeting, and by a nurse who visited the Channel Islands.

Cumberland Infirmary, Carlisle

This year our unit has made steady progress. Suggestions taken to matron have always been met with her co-operation and help. Our main events of the year have been: a talk by the lady almoner on her work; a lecture by our pathologist, Dr. J. Steven Faulds, on "Antiseptics and Penicillin"; a talk by our sister-tutor (a former secretary of the Cumberland Branch) on the work of the Royal College of Nursing; and a visit by two members to the Annual Meeting at Southport. Successful socials included a Hallowe'en party and some beetle drives.

Memorial Hospital, Darlington

We have held interesting meetings each month with seasonable activities. They have included an exhibition, a debate on equal pay and rights for men and women, and discussions on improvements in conditions for nurses in training, the new syllabus and State control of hospitals. Representatives attended the Annual Meeting at Southport and the Royal College of Nursing on the occasion of Princess Elizabeth's visit and the Speech Making Contest. We have also held an impromptu social evening, a Hallowe'en party and we have been busy rehearsing 'Aladdin' with which we entertained the patients at Christmas.

Dewsbury General Infirmary

During the past year we have held a few musical evenings, listening to selections of gramophone records. One of these evenings, held in aid of relief abroad, realized £5 5s., which was supplemented by money which the student nurses raised by their own individual efforts, making a total of £13 2s. 6d. We have also had a "spelling bee" student nurses versus trained staff. Two representatives attended the Annual Meeting at Southport, and a representative formed part of the guard of honour when Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth was presented with a cheque for the Royal Navy Fund. For a number of weeks we held weekly "sewing bees," to make articles for a "bring and buy" sale on November 24. The sale realized £175 some of which provided a new light for the operating theatre, the remaining money going towards theatre furniture. On November 26, a talk was given by the Deputy Town Clerk of Dewsbury, on Local Government and Town Affairs.

Howbeck General Hospital

In July we held a "bring and buy" sale which realized £60. With this we bought a sewing machine for the use of the nurses, a table tennis set and playing cards. The remainder is being kept to buy tennis racquets. Our victory dance was a great success. Two of our members visited the Royal College of Nursing for the Annual Re-union and Speech Making Contest.

Royal Lancaster Infirmary

We are a very new Unit; our first meeting was held in May, 1945. After electing our Committee, we invited matron and sister tutor to a meeting, to be formally elected as our president and vice-president. A short concert followed. The invitation for one of our number to form part of the Guard of Honour on the occasion of Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth's visit to the Cowdray Hall, was received with great delight. In November, with the local branch of the College, we helped with a "bring and buy" sale, which was opened by the Lady Mayoress. On December 11, matron presented us with a cheque for 50 guineas for our funds as our share of the proceeds. This first year has been very uphill work, but we are all agreed that it has been worth every scrap of energy expended, for the feeling of comradeship which has come from our work together.

The General Infirmary, Leeds

During the early months of the year we had talks on different branches of nursing. One was on district nursing, by Miss Blundell, then Superintendent of the Leeds District Nursing Association, and we were offered a morning out with a district nurse, to give us an insight into her work. We were able to send representatives to the Annual General Meeting held at Southport this year, and to the College for Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth's visit. On the social side, musical evenings, held informally after duty and followed by tea, have been a regular and popular entertainment. Records and introductory talks are usually given. At Christmas, we all enjoyed our musical evening party, which included records, a "musical quiz," and carols.

St. James's Hospital, Leeds

On October 22 we had a medical film show, kindly given by Mr. Turner of Messrs. Smith and Nephew, Ltd. The films were "Treatment of Industrial Injuries in Factories," and "Treatment of Fractures of the Humerus." Tea and cakes were served afterwards. Two representatives attended the Annual Re-union at the Royal College on November 2. We held a bonfire party on November 5, with dancing games and refreshments. Brandy snap and treacle toffee were passed round the bonfire and we all enjoyed roasting potatoes. One of our guests played a banjo and everyone sang around the fire. Invitations had been sent to the Leeds Medical School and Leeds General Infirmary. We are hoping in the near future to hold a jumble sale, a series of debates and a Valentine dance. May we extend our good wishes to all other student nurses' units ?

Royal Infirmary, Liverpool

In many ways '1945' has been an active year for the Liverpool Royal Infirmary Unit of the Student Nurses' Association. The Executive committee and other representatives attended the annual meeting of the Student Nurses' Association in Southport ; two representatives went to the annual Speech-Making Contest held in London ; a representative had the privilege of meeting Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth and formed part of the guard of honour at the Royal College of Nursing. Within our own Unit we have had many social activities, the most outstanding was our "Victory Dance" held in June. From time to time we have had organized parties including a "Hallowe'en Party." Tennis and hockey have been enjoyed by some ; a tennis tournament was organized ; hockey fixtures have been made . A debating society and a musical society have been formed. At the former we have had discussions on "The General Election" ; "Fraternization with the Germans" and "The Colour Bar." All hospitals on "Merseyside" contributed to the nursing exhibition in Liverpool and our hospital emphasized the use of 'drugs.' The drug 'Paludrine' was mentioned as having been experimented with in this hospital ; we procured from the Tropical School attached to this hospital, some living 'mosquitoes' to demonstrate the way 'Malaria' is contracted, and treated ; an album, 'History of Nursing' was compiled by the 1945 September Preliminary Training School. We hope that this 'Victory Christmas' was an enjoyable and successful one for all !

The Royal Southern Hospital, Liverpool

We are happy to report a substantial increase in membership. Our former matron and president, Miss M. Stephens, who helped us so much in founding the unit, retired amid universal good wishes. We welcome her successor, Miss E. Viggor, S.R.N., R.F.N., S.C.M., as our new president. Throughout the year we have held knitting circles to provide garments for the Royal Navy. Tennis interested many nurses, although this year we had no organized matches. We have defeated our resident medical staff at table tennis. Several musical evenings have been held. Many helpful suggestions put forward by nurse, have been sympathetically received by our matron. We celebrated our Victory days by special social evenings. Delegates attended the London Re-union and Southport meeting. For the Southport meeting, we had the pleasure of giving hospitality to nurses from Sheffield, Birmingham and Derby. In October and November a "nursing exhibition was organized by the Liverpool and District Advisory Committee, sponsored by the Ministries of Health, Labour and Information and arranged by the Sister Tutor Section within the Liverpool Branch of the Royal College of Nursing. We contributed exhibits. and a demonstration of "An Out-Patient Department." Fortnightly "Christian Commando" meetings together with our weekly prayer meetings give encouragement to many nurses.

Walton Hospital, Liverpool

We elected a new committee in 1945 on which we have some new and enthusiastic members. We held an amusing Hallowe'en party. Some of our members sent exhibits to the Liverpool Nursing Exhibition while others went to the Exhibition to try to smooth out the difficulties of girls who wish to become nurses, but fear that ours is a profession of all work and no play. We have started a series of musical evenings ; the first, a gramphone recital, included music by Chopin and Bach. The next performance we hope will be a pianoforte recital by some of our members. We are working on a new Student Nurses' Magazine.

Whiston County Hospital, Liverpool

Our Unit has been active for several years. Charities we have supported are the British Red Cross Society Benevolent, Princess Tsahai Memorial, and Royal Navy Funds. Our contribution to the Royal Navy Fund was £15. We held a whist drive at which we entertained wounded soldiers. Members attended the Annual Meeting at Southport and the Student Nurses' Re-union and Speech Making Contest. Besides our ordinary meetings held monthly, we have a representative council to carry resolutions which are put to the Northern Representative Council member. Our annual dance was held at the beginning of December.

We often discuss items which occur in the press and the last Ministry of Health Report aroused much interest. Our Unit visits sick nurses, for example we have visited one nurse who has been in a sanatorium during the year and taken her books.

Booth Hall Hospital, Manchester

Our Unit representatives attended the Annual meeting and other functions arranged by Headquarters. We were delighted to give hospitality for the annual meeting at Southport to units whose representatives could not be accommodated any nearer. We also gave a concert for the visiting representatives on the eve of the meeting. Support and monetary help have been given to the "Aid to China," "Stars in Battledress" and "Royal Navy" Funds. Money and clothing were sent to concentration camp victims ; we helped to subscribe the £20 our hospital gave to the Manchester Branch's effort for relief abroad and some of our members acted as waitresses at the garden party arranged to raise the money contributed by the Branch. We acted as stewards at one of the Mobile Nursing Recruitment Exhibitions and have helped with knitting for children in liberated Europe. One lovely summer day two charabancs packed with "long stay" cases, evacuee child patients from London, and nursing staff, made a journey to Blackpool. Six "red letter" hours were spent in that gay resort. In our hospital Victory celebration, staff from every department—and every grade of worker—joined. The Cathedral "Thanksgiving for Victory" service, after a procession from the Town Hall of all the Services, was most impressive and we were honoured to be represented.

Royal Manchester Children's Hospital

Our unit, established in 1942, has 100 per cent. membership. During the past year we have had talks by professional people on "Burma," "Social Security," "Politics," "Nursing in the Army," "Journalism," and "Neglected Children." We sent representatives to the Annual Meeting at Southport, the Student Nurses Annual Re-union in London and to the Royal College of Nursing when her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth received the Student Nurses' Association cheque for the Royal Navy Fund. We have been able to help in the recruitment of nurses by giving talks to youth clubs and schools. Ministry of Information films have been shown each month. On the social side, we have had a jumble sale, social evenings, musical evenings and dances. Tennis, netball, hockey and physical training help to keep us fit. A physical training display and sports evening was held in the summer. We send our good wishes to all other student nurses' units.

Royal Victoria Infirmary, Newcastle

During the past year our numbers have shown a steady increase. Several successful dances have been organized and during the summer months we had a tennis tournament against the medical staff. In July a representative was sent to the Royal College of Nursing when Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth received a cheque for the Royal Navy Fund. At the end of August a "bring and buy" sale was held in aid of relief abroad and when £54 7s. 6d. was raised. Presentations were made to our retiring assistant matron and sister tutor. In October, two representatives went to the annual re-union at the Royal College of Nursing. Recently we held a whist drive which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Royal Victoria Hospital prizewinners: (front row) the Misses A. McBride, R. Ross, M. Paisley, E. Humphries; (back row) D. Mostyn (gold medal, (A. Hutchinson, M. Ryder (silver medal), J. Boyd

The Rotherham Hospital, Doncaster Gate, Rotherham, Yorks

The Unit is quite small, but has been busy recently. A beetle drive and spelling bee were held to raise funds. Two jumble sales enabled the Unit to send the sum of £10 to the Royal Navy Fund. One of the student nurses was chosen to form part of a Guard of Honour to Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth, to whom the cheque was presented. A dance was held in October and a cheque for £16 5s. sent for the Princess Tsahai Memorial Hospital.

Monkwearmouth and Southwick Hospital, Sunderland

On April 22 we held a fancy dress party; proceeds of £6 were given to the Royal Navy Fund, the cheque being handed to Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth. On August 22, a garden fête was held. It was a huge success and the amount realized was £60, part of which is to be given towards the nurses' library.

Ingham Infirmary, South Shields

During the year we held monthly socials to raise money for our funds. We held a victory party and Hallowe'en party which were much enjoyed. Our unit was represented at the College for the opening of the library by Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth. Our library is flourishing thanks to our president, the matron, who gave us a good number of books. We gave a concert for patients and friends at Christmas.

Hope Hospital, Salford

For the town's Thanksgiving Week, members held a "bring and buy" sale and several individual raffles, raising a total of £220. The student nurses' tennis team played two matches this season. The hospital sports were held on September 1; teams from the neighbouring hospitals were invited; the weather was not very good, but the races were much enjoyed.

City General Hospital, Sheffield

During the year we have paid visits to the student nurses' exhibition at Crumpsall Hospital, Manchester. Our chairman spoke at the inaugural meeting of the Student Nurses' Association Unit of St. James's Hospital, Leeds, and two of us went to the Study Day at Harrogate. We sent two delegates to the Annual Meeting at Southport, and one member was present at Headquarters when the cheque for the Royal Navy Fund was presented to Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth. Two members went to the Speech-Making Contest. At home we went to several concerts, some of them by the Secretary of the Sheffield Philharmonic Society. Our Christmas panto-mime, "Aladdin," our annual carol party, and a "V.J." celebration in the form of a visit by motor coach to the new reservoir at Ladybower, helped to complete a happy year. We have held "bring and buy" sales and beetle drives, and have sent gifts to supplement the Christmas fare of some of our out-patients suffering from protracted diseases.

Withington Hospital

Here is a brief review of our activities during the past year. Sport and outdoor activities have been coming to the fore—so much that we have had to form a sub-committee. A hockey team of day and night nurses has been playing and we have now obtained a pitch close to the hospital and hope to try for the league. Cycle rides and swimming have been arranged and a tennis ladder was formed. The Sports Committee raised money for their own section by a most enjoyable sports evening. We have had several very informal socials with a musical evening at the beginning of the year, and we found we had real talent. A lecture was given by Dr. Benham on an interesting case, and a talk by Miss Calder on "The New Training Scheme for Manchester." We have formed a debating class and have held two debates, "that Conscription should Continue after the War," and "that Euthanasia be established in Britain." It was decided that a debate should be held every six weeks. A beetle drive was held in aid of UNRRA, in conjunction with other hospitals of this area and £30 was raised. Dances have been rather few this year, owing to alterations to the dance hall and cloakrooms. From the funds of our last dance we were able to send £10 10s. to the Princess Tsahai Memorial Hospital Fund. A fun fair held recently proved unusual and was enjoyed by both staff and visitors. We have been able to send representatives to the Annual Meeting at Southport, and the reception in honour of Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth. One of our colleagues also, has been elected to represent the hospitals of this area on the Central Representative Council. We send our good wishes to all other student nurses' units.

Wrexham and East Denbighshire War Memorial Hospital, Wrexham

Our Unit has been active recently and membership is now almost 100 per cent. We held a Hallowe'en dance which realized a few pounds for our funds. Two representatives attended the Annual Re-union in London. During the summer some happy picnics were arranged. The night staff challenged the day staff to a table tennis tournament; a lawn tennis tournament was also held. One of the doctors spoke to us one evening on "How we can help to improve our profession." We hope to hold debates on this subject soon. Dancing classes have been arranged with two nurses as instructresses.

Northern Ireland

City Hospital, Belfast

We have been very active during the past year. We have held whist drives and dances during the winter, raising money for our funds. Treasure hunts on summer evenings have been great fun. Mrs. Stocken, secretary of the Student Nurses' Association, visited Northern Ireland in October and gave some interesting lectures. Two members of our Unit attended the Annual Re-union of the Student Nurses' Association in London.

Forster Green Hospital, Belfast

Our unit which has been formed just over a year, began with seventeen members, and we are looking forward to a number of new members soon. A concert and raffle in January were most successful—both financially and socially. We realized £52 in aid of a Scholarship Fund for a health visitor for Northern Ireland. A jumble sale later raised a large sum, some of which we gave to the Royal Navy Fund and with the remainder we started the unit's banking account. In the summer we had two dances, inviting nurses from other hospitals and members of the forces. During August and September, we planned an exhibition on the treatment of tuberculosis which we hope to complete very soon.

Mrs. Stocken visited us in October and representatives from our unit were nominated to attend the annual winter re-union at the Royal College of Nursing, London. The nurses enjoyed the visit and would like to thank Mrs. Stocken, the College and the matron, sister tutors and staff at Harefield Sanatorium, Middlesex, for kindness and hospitality.

Royal Victoria Hospital, Belfast

Our unit has been especially active. Our most interesting meeting was when we learned from Mrs. Stocken, on her visit, of the present activities and future plans of the Association. Previously we had a talk on public health nursing by Mrs. Woodman. At Hallowe'en we had a party to which we invited the medical staff and our friends. We enjoyed a gramophone recital one evening by our resident surgical officer who showed us "pictures in music." We held a dance and with the proceeds hope to send representatives to the next re-union in London and at our last general meeting we heard the report of our two representatives from the November re-union. We are now planning our winter concert. We hold a weekly hockey match against the resident medical staff with no casualties so far.

The New Sanitary Tampon
for MENSTRUAL HYGIENE

Here is an entirely new development in the manufacture of tampons. LIL-LETS are actually sanitary towels compressed to tampon shape for internal use. They have been specially designed to meet the previous objections of gynaecologists to this form of internal protection on the grounds that it may possibly lead to vaginal trauma or infection.

LIL-LETS are made of highly absorbent cotton wool, wholly contained in a cover of absorbent gauze. This entirely eliminates any risk of cotton wool particles becoming detached to set up irritation. After compression, each LIL-LETS tampon is coated with a thin, readily soluble and completely innocuous film which ensures smooth and easy insertion without the use of an applicator.

★ Every carton of LIL-LETS carries a warning that no tampon is suitable for all women, and that tampons should not be used by unmarried women or young girls unless recommended by a doctor. An uncompressed specimen, together with one dozen of the finished product and a fully descriptive leaflet, will be sent on receipt of professional card.

NURSES' APPEAL FOR NURSES

Nation's Fund for Nurses

We wish to take this opportunity of wishing you all a very good New Year. We all hope for better times in 1946 and if we all do our share towards it, the world surely will be a better place. We were asked last week where all the money has come from which we have given to the Nation's Fund during 1945. By looking at our column each week it is obvious that it comes from hundreds of nurses who remember their colleagues who are old and very much in need of help. It is only by remembering others generously and helpfully that this New Year will be a happy one for all.

Dame Elizabeth Cadbury, president of the hospital, presided at the prizegiving of the General Hospital, Birmingham, held recently. Miss Dorothy Cadbury, who presented the awards, in her address to the nurses, dwelt on the responsibility of the use of their extra leisure.

The following awards were made :—Gold medal—Miss B. P. Cramp ; Silver medal—Miss M. W. Burne ; Bronze medal—Miss U. Hatton; Third year prize—Miss B. P. Cramp ; The Beckwith Whitehouse prize in gynaecological nursing—Miss B. P. Cramp, Miss O. M. Smith, Miss E. M. Smith ; Dr. A. V. Neale's prize—Miss A. M. Coakley ; George Heaton prize—Miss F. Williams, Miss G. I. Crabtree.

—and at Stafford

Miss Blakemore, matron of the North Stafford Infirmary, presented the following awards to nurses of Stanton Orthopaedic Hospital, Eccleshall, Stafford, at their recent prizegiving :—First prize for senior nurses—Miss G. Ede ; First prize for intermediate nurses—Miss M. Wright ; First prize for junior nurses—Miss A. Dawson. Certificates were also presented to six nurses, who passed the Hospital Orthopaedic Examination.

Plain Speaking at Newcastle-on-Tyne

Viscountess Ridley, presenting the awards at the recent prizegiving held on the Nurses Home, Newcastle-on-Tyne General Hospital, gave the following " maxims for nurses " :—always ask the doctor when you are not sure of something ; never be afraid to own up to a mistake ; cultivate intelligent observation ; remember the importance of courtesy, which is more than good manners, it is tact, patience and sympathy. Speaking of nurses and doctors Lady Ridley said : " There is still too much of the military in the relationship between doctor and nurse, with the doctors as officers, the sisters as N.C.O.s and the nurses as privates. I do not think it is in the best interests of the patients or in the practice of your own craft that you should stand in such awe of the doctor." The awards consisted of :—Heath medal and cheque for £10—Miss M. S. Dixon ; First Prize (City Council) for medicine and medical nursing, Miss B. Anderson and several other Heath Prizes and certificates.

Queen's Nurse Retires

A cheque for £150, a silver serviette ring and a bouquet of roses were presented to Miss Rose Black, R.R.C., Queen's nurse, a founder member of the Royal College of Nursing, at a social evening given by members of the Brumby and Frodingham district of the Scunthorpe District Nursing Association. Miss Black, who is retiring, has worked in the district for 34 years, with a break from 1914-18 when she was with the Territorial Army Nursing Service.

" The Revengers' Tragedy "

The players of St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, followed up their success in " The Mikado" by a presentation of the little known " Revenger's Tragedy," by Cyril Tourneur. A play of rape, poison and murder, it was certainly not for those who like something light, but it has often great beauty of words and for ingenious intricacy of plot and dramatic situation, it is worthy of the great peroid of English drama to which it belongs. The medical students were rather more " at home " on the stage than the student nurses, but the production, by Alan V. Price, was excellent, with a high and polished standard, and attention to detail.

The Delicious, Nourishing, Energising Vitamin Food

NURSES who have the care of children will find 'Vimaltol-time' among the most cheerful moments of the day. No child can resist the delightful sweet orange flavour of this nourishing, energising, vitamin food.

'Vimaltol' is a well-balanced food, containing important nutritive elements and vitamins which help to increase strength and weight, maintain healthy growth and build up resistance against winter ailments.

The vitamins in 'Vimaltol' are supplied from specially prepared malt extract and yeast, which is one of the richest natural sources of vitamin B_1, and Halibut Liver Oil fortified with additional vitamins and minerals. It is deliciously flavoured with orange juice.

For these reasons 'Vimaltol' is an extra safeguard of health and a most desirable addition to the daily dietary of all children. It is equally delicious given from the spoon or used as a spread on bread.

A Shoe
is as Good as its FIT

SHOE styles are limited in these times, though probably Charles H. Baber's of Regent Street, London, have as large an assortment as any shoe shop. But the point is that a shoe is only as good as its FIT. All Charles H. Baber's assistants are properly trained fitters on the heel-to-ball principle. This ensures ideal foot comfort to the wearer; preserves the shapely contours of the shoe and adds appreciably to its life.

CLINICAL PRODUCTS LTD., RICHMOND, SURREY

In case of extreme debility...

Where there is extremely low vitality and loss of tone in the bodily functions it is a standard practice to maintain strength by giving glucose. If this be offered in the form of LUCOZADE the favourable psychological response it evokes will play a valuable part in aiding the patient — for in LUCOZADE you have a delightfully refreshing beverage. There is a complete absence of the sickly nauseating taste which so often discourages the patient who is offered glucose in any of its ordinary forms.

WELFARE WISDOM

The reliance which factory workers place in their Welfare Nurse is comparable with that which she in turn places in her First Aid equipment.

Rapid relief from pain and distress is no less essential in the National interest than to the sufferer, and calls for the prompt administration of a safe analgesic and sedative. That is why 'Anadin,' a balanced combination in the aspirin-phenacetin-caffeine group, is regarded as indispensable in Factory Welfare work.
